—Wheat is still soaring in price and it really begins to look as though the $2 figure set some months since will be reached within a few weeks.

—A small boy slipped into the Warren city library building through the basement the other night and when he left $30 went with him. Police are looking for the youngster whose identity is unknown.

—A. H. Austin has been confirmed as postmaster of Ravenna. Mr. Austin had to resign as county recorder to accept the postmastership. He retired as recorder Monday and will be writing P. M. after his name very shortly.

—Elmer E. Elliott is a dairyman of Beloit and has perhaps the finest herd of Holstein cows in eastern Ohio and his heavy milkers. Mr. Elliott milks these cows three times in 24 hours and by this method gets results that count. It increases the flow of milk perceptibly.

—Mrs. Jessie Watson, wife of W. B. Watson, died unexpectedly Monday noon at her home in Kensington, Columbiana county. She had been in her usual health until Monday morning when she suffered an attack of acute indigestion and death resulted in a few hours. Mrs. Watson's maiden name was Jesse Louise Taylor. She was born in Canfield March 12, 1867, consequently was nearly 48 years of age. She was married to Mr. Watson Oct. 26, 1886. Before her marriage she lived with her mother on High street. For quite a number of years she resided in Youngstown, her husband being agent for the U. S. Express Co. She was a member of the P. H. C. Ladies' Auxiliary Friends of Veterans, of which she was past state president, and of the Lutheran church. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Harry Watson, of Youngstown. Funeral services were held in Kensington Thursday forenoon. The remains were taken to Augusta, Mr. Watson's old home, for burial.

WEST AUSTINTOWN

Feb. 3.—Six more weeks of cold and stormy weather is predicted by the groundhog who came out of his winter quarters Tuesday and saw his shadow for a short time at 12:30 p. m. Clyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Ripple, is seriously ill with pleuropneumonia.

Frank Squires of Pierpont, Ashtabula county, spent Monday night with Wesley Ohi and Mr. and Mrs. R. O'Hourley. Mr. Ohi became acquainted with Mrs. Squires at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Alice Gehring, near Galeburg, Ill., in the fall of 1913. Since then they and Mrs. Gehring journeyed together to visit relatives near Horton, Kan. Mr. Squires and his son are largely engaged in the poultry business.

Considerable fighting has been indulged in by some of the men who are unloading brick here. One man was arrested Saturday evening by Constable John DeHoff and taken before "Squire" Anderson, who, it is reported, bound him over to court for assault.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ohi are visiting the latter's parents, having recently returned from a visit with relatives in Reading, Pa.

Mrs. Margaret Bishop has returned from a visit in Niles and Cleveland.

Mrs. Alexander Kern of Niles recently visited her mother, Mrs. Bishop. Perry Ohi has established an auto line for special purposes, between here and Youngstown.

Colds and Croup in Children.

Many people rely upon Chamberlain's Cough Remedy implicitly in cases of colds and croup, and it never disappoints them. Mrs. E. H. Thomas, Loganport, Ind., writes: "I have found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best medicine for colds and croup I have ever used, and never tire of recommending it to my neighbors and friends. I have always given it to my children when suffering from croup, and it has never failed to give them prompt relief." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

DECLARES EUGENIC STATUTES UNWISE

Illinois State Charities Report to the Governor Says Entire Subject Is Now Held Up to Ridicule.

St. Louis, Feb. 3.—Enactment into law of the principles promulgated by eugenicists is declared unwise, and the eugenicists themselves are attacked as going to extremes in the fourth annual report of the Illinois state charities commission, submitted to Gov. Dunning and published recently in the Institution Quarterly, an official organ of the public charity service of Illinois. The charities commission holds eugenicists responsible for ridicule into which a serious subject has been plunged, and points out how science of eugenics has fallen into disrepute.

"We do not favor the enactment into law of the principles the eugenicist has promulgated," the report says. "They are worthy of public thought and consideration. But whatever of merit they contain, to be effective, must be accepted voluntarily by an enlightened and quickened public conscience and not forced upon it by statutory enactment. Much more can be accomplished in this field by the dissemination of clearly demonstrated facts than by attempts to impose by law upon the public poorly understood or wholly misunderstood principles of human conduct and life. The science of eugenics is a dignified, deep and serious study of the tremendous problems of human life. It is entitled to respect and respectful consideration."

WILSON SEES SENATORS

PRESIDENT AND REPUBLICAN PROGRESSIVES CONFER OVER SHIP PURCHASE BILL.

Washington, Feb. 3.—President Wilson Tuesday informed Senators Kenyon and Norris, Republican Progressives who visited the White House by special invitation, that he would welcome their support of the ship purchase bill upon the basis of permanent government ownership.

The president is quoted as having told these senators that he favored this permanent policy from the outset, but that he had been persuaded to accept a compromise as the only way of getting the bill through. He agreed, also, to their demands that the bill should carry a specific prohibition against the purchase of interned ships or any belligerents. This, he was quoted as saying, had also been in his mind when this proposition was first broached. Returning to the Capitol, senators Kenyon and Norris conferred with Senators Clapp, Crawford and McPherson and tentatively agreed that they would support the bill if amended according to their views.

WASN'T KISSED AT THAT

MAN, WHILE AVOIDING A YOUNG WOMAN, BREAKS RIGHT ARM AND THREE RIBS.

Moultrie, Ga., Feb. 3.—John Radcliffe is flat on his back in bed with his right arm and three ribs broken, but doesn't care, he says, for his hurts are the honorable badges of his unmissed state. For John, who is 16 and large for his age, makes the proud boast that no woman's lips have yet pressed his and what is more, are not going to be. Miss Winifred Trice heard John's boast at a barn dance and tried to catch him and kiss him. John was hard put to it to escape, but did so by falling out the hay loft door.

Prepare for Suffrage Meeting. Indianapolis, Feb. 3.—This city is preparing a meeting of suffragists of the Mississippi valley states March 7, 8 and 9. It is known as the Mississippi Valley conference, which meets annually to make campaign plans. Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, president of the Ohio Woman Suffrage association, will be chairman of the conference and will preside at all the meetings.

Recognized Advantages. You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for coughs and colds. It does not suppress a cough but loosens and relieves it. It aids expectoration and opens the secretions, which enables the system to throw off a cold. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

OHIOAN APPEARS BEFORE PROBERS

F. N. Goff Says Cleveland Foundation Is Entirely Different From Others.

New York, Feb. 3.—F. N. Goff of Cleveland convinced the federal industrial commission that the Cleveland foundation is a different sort of organization from the Rockefeller and other multimillionaire foundations which it is engaged in probing. Goff was kept on the stand before the federal probers for one hour, and he was never for a moment heckled in any way by the commissioners. Goff pleaded the probers by frankly stating his belief that the fullest publicity possible should attend all actions of the big foundations.

Might Be a Menace. Goff paid tribute to the Rockefeller foundation, but agreed that at some future time, in the hands of other men, it might become a menace.

He explained that there was no possibility of the Cleveland foundation becoming dangerous to the people, as they were to be well represented on the board and had too much power of recall upon any men who might betray their trust.

Goff said the plan developed from his experience in helping people dispose of their estates for charitable purposes.

He said he often found that people left their money for too narrow purposes; that in one instance a large estate was left to beautify a cemetery. "A foundation is a gift in perpetuity of money for such purposes as the originators design," he said. "Ours is rather a plan for a foundation to get such gifts as men of the city may leave for the good of the people of the city."

He explained how the income was to be used for charitable and scientific purposes, regardless of race, color or creed of those benefited.

Limited to Charitable Purposes. "Under your plan, could you conduct model stores?" he was asked.

"No. It's limited to charitable purposes."

"Could you operate a newspaper on charitable purposes, or a campaign about the relations of labor and capital?"

"No."

"Your committee is different from any other foundation we have yet examined. Three members are named by the mayor, the probate judge and the federal judge. Was there a democratic idea involved?"

"Yes; I believed the living rather than the dead should run the things." Goff said that rather than have the government exercise more power over foundations, he favored their members being named by the president, governor of the state or other public executive.

Called Walsh Down. Goff called Chairman Walsh down when the latter asked whether it was true his trust company could control the board. He said there was no such provision.

"What was the object in putting the trust company charge of funds?" "Because such men are more used to handling such affairs and making proper investments."

Commissioner O'Connell asked how much the Cleveland foundation had in its possession.

"None actually, but $40,000,000 is in sight after the death of the donors." "Are you planning any particular work for Cleveland?" he was asked.

"Nothing except the survey, which is doing excellent work."

CANNOT VISIT PALMIST

OVERLIN COLLEGE GIRLS RECEIVE ORDERS FROM DEAN OF CONSERVATORY.

Oberlin, O., Feb. 3.—Recently a palmist entered Oberlin, rented a room on E. College-st., placed an advertisement in Oberlin papers and she was soon doing a rushing business at 25 cents a throw. Conservatory students flocked to the wizard and soon were conveyed into the future. But dreams of operatic and stage careers, dealing with the chubby god of love and fortunes to be had been cruelly punctured. Dreamy coeds are once more back on earth, and all this because Dean Nash of the conservatory has issued a decree which reads: "All conservatory students are requested not to visit the palmist."

Wife Finds Husband's Body. Chardon, O., Feb. 3.—Ernest Krick, 64, farmer of Munson township, was found dead in an outbuilding by his wife, who missed him and followed his tracks in the snow. Coroner Allyn pronounced death due to natural causes.

John Barleycorn Given Blow. South Bend, Ind., Feb. 3.—As a result of an agreement entered into by several of South Bend's leading manufacturers not to employ men or women who drink intoxicating liquors, John Barleycorn has been given a staggering blow in this city.

Doing Things Well. Most workers who gain a reputation for doing anything take care that it is not lost sight of. They continually will turn the conversation to a point where they can remark, "Why, on such and such a day of the week I do so and so. You fellows don't know what hard work is."

The world judges a man by what he does best not by the things he can do as well as anybody else. The man who strains his energies to do things remarkably well need not be afraid he will not get his deserts. The world always is on the lookout for the man who can do a little better than the rest of the crowd, and as a great thinker remarked, even if the man with a reputation built his house in the woods, the world would make a beaten path to his headquarters in the forest.

LINCOLN

I. We strive in narrow, selfish ways To win advancement or have praise, To gain rewards, to hear applause, To be accounted great or wise; We make convenience a cause, And ever look with watchful eyes For that approval, right or wrong, Accorded by the noisy throng. To them that have the wit to see Which way the crowds intend to fare, And brazenly pretend to be The God-sent, glorious leaders there.

II. He saw with vision true and clear, And, crushing doubt and scornful fear, Advanced, with conscience as his guide; Discerning where the course was laid, He waited not for wind or tide, Nor for the mob's approval stayed; A giant where weak pygmies rose To jeer and clamor and oppose, He pressed with godlike earnestness And an unconquerable soul Through hellish hate and bloody stress, To die a martyr at the goal.

III. We worry over little cares, We mutter foolish, selfish prayers, And think that God will deign to heed; We scheme to keep our brothers back, We long to dazzle or to lead, And sigh for riches that we lack; We covet honors and are proud To win the favors of the crowd That for a little while has time To cheer us where we strut, to let Us fancy we have grown sublime, And then is ready to forget.

IV. We read the sad appeal that lies Within his kindly, sunken eyes And learn a little of his love; We mark the lines upon his brow And dimly see how much he bore, And in our weakness wonder how, And all the patient sorrows trace; We search for vanity, for pride, That, human-like, he might have claimed, Then thrust our little cares aside, And turn away, and are ashamed.

PENS THAT ENDED GREAT CIVIL WAR

Precious Historic Relics Used by Generals Grant and Lee Are Now Treasured in Missouri City.

THE two pens that ended the great Civil war are in Missouri. Only once have they been dipped in ink since the memorable day when U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee made use of them in the Virginia hamlet dignified by the name of Appomattox Courthouse. The present owner, Dr. E. P. Cronkite, a St. Joseph dentist, would deem it little short of sacrilege for the pens to be touched by any drop of ink destined to flow into ordinary sentences. The pens repose securely in a strong box in Doctor Cronkite's St. Joseph home, 2015 Francis street. They still are wrapped in a paper taken from the table on which the surrender paper was signed.

The coming of these historic pens to Missouri was not heralded. They were added to one of the most interesting private historical collections in the state, but a collection the existence of which is quite unknown even in St. Joseph save to those of Doctor Cronkite's intimates who have had the hospitality of his den on the third floor of his home.

The pen came to Doctor Cronkite from Mrs. A. B. Lawrence of Warsaw, N. Y., after the death of her husband, Colonel Lawrence, who in his lifetime was indeed an indefatigable collector. The colonel gathered together every Bible translation but two, while his collection of coins sold for $10,000 on his death. One tie between the St. Joseph collector and Colonel Lawrence was the fact that Doctor Cronkite's father was an officer in the First New York dragoons, of which Colonel Lawrence was lieutenant colonel.

No better history of the pens probably is to be desired than the one written out in Colonel Lawrence's handwriting:

"The pens in this box, one a quill, the other steel, marked at the time, April 10, 1865, are the ones used in signing the Gen. R. E. Lee surrender papers in the Col. Wilmer McLean house, where the surrender took place at Appomattox Courthouse, Va., April 10, 1865, and were given to me in the McLean house April 10, 1865, as souvenirs with a piece of the table on which General Lee signed the surrender dictated by General Grant. The piece of table was given to me next day in my office in the sheriff's room of the courthouse by Colonel Wilmer McLean, with a certificate of its history. The sheriff was William Daniel Hix, now in Hixburg, Appomattox, Va., to whom I turned over the surplus surrender property for distribution among the poor and deserving of the vicinity of the surrender by verbal order of General Grant to me in the presence of Maj. Gen. John Gibbons, president of the commission."

"The Best Laxative I Know Of." "I have sold Chamberlain's Tablets for several years. People who have used them will take nothing else. I can recommend them to my customers as the best laxative and cure for constipation that I know of," writes Frank Strouse, Fruitland, Iowa. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

left by General Grant to close up surrender matters at the courthouse. The ragged piece of paper in which the pens are wrapped was part of a larger piece on the table on which the surrender papers were written, and which I took from the table to wrap the pens in as they were handed to me by General Potter, our Twenty-fourth army corps chief of staff, for the valued souvenirs they were.

"These pens have never been out once since dipped in ink, and then at the Soldiers' fair in New York city for my signature the evening General Grant was there."

(Signed) A. B. LAWRENCE. An even more detailed account, in Colonel Lawrence's handwriting, tells of his coming into possession of a bit of the surrender table:

"Piece of the table upon which Gen. Robert E. Lee signed the terms of surrender dictated by Gen. U. S. Grant, April 9, 1865. Colonel McLean said that Gen. P. H. Sheridan sought to buy the table, but that he would not sell it; that in his absence General Sheridan left a $50 greenback and carried off the table, from which this piece had been broken off in the doing. Which piece he later brought as a relic to Col. A. B. Lawrence in his office in the sheriff's room of the courthouse, also saying that he, McLean, had moved from Manassas, Va., after the Bull Run battle, to escape any more such, and to the safe Appomattox Courthouse, Va., where he had to endure the geying of the residents for running away, etc., and was now glad that they had an eye-opening experience of their own in war, and that it was his vindication which he was glad to have. Also, that the Bull Run battle was fought mainly on his plantation on which was Bull Run ford. Black burn ford, McLean ford, etc.; that General Beauregard used his (McLean's) home for his headquarters during the battle, and wrote his orders and dispatches there on this table or stand, and so McLean says: "The war began on my plantation and ended in my house on this table. So I did not want to sell it. I have had a hand in the beginning and the end of the war; and enough of it!"

"I have since learned that General Sheridan gave the table to Mrs. General Custer."

"The certificate given me by Colonel McLean about this table is on file with my Appomattox Courthouse surrender papers, where, under order of General Grant, I acted as chief quartermaster of the United States forces at Appomattox Courthouse, Va., from April 9, 1865, until we retired to Richmond with effects."

LINCOLN HOUSE OF WORSHIP

Lincoln an Inventor.

Among the inventions on file at the patent office in Washington is one by Abraham Lincoln, designed to enable freight-laden bathos to work their way over the sand bars of the Mississippi river. Lincoln conceived the idea when, as a young man, he was sent a boatman on the Mississippi, and met the obstacles that his invention was meant to overcome.

The invention consists of one or more huge bellows attached to each side of the boat. When the boat sticks on a shoal, the bellows are to be inflated by means of a windlass connected with upright poles attached to the bellows. The idea is that the air in the bellows increases the buoyancy of the craft, and makes it draw more water.

THE MONTHS.

In January falls the snow, In February cold winds blow, In March peep out the early flowers, In April fall the sunny showers, In May the tulips bloom so gay, In June the farmer mows his hay, In July harvest is begun, In August hotly shines the sun, September turns the green leaves brown, October winds then shake them down, November fields are brown and bare, December comes and ends the year.—Ex.

A WAY OUT

A Resident of Canfield Shows the Way.

There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache. Liniment and plasters may relieve it; But they seldom reach the cause. Backache is caused to suspect the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys. Canfield people back them up. Read a case of it.

J. B. Hartman, Canfield, says: "My back was lame and the kidney secretions burned in passage. One day when complaining of the trouble, a friend said he knew something that would fix me up right away, and that was Doan's Kidney Pills. I had tried other remedies without benefit but I got a box and after I had taken three-quarters of it, I felt better. After I had finished two boxes, I was permanently cured."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hartman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.
